THE COUNTY ELECTION.

The Fusionists Carry the Entire County Ticket With the Possible Exception of Judge.

The returns are now in from every district in the county, but it is impossible to get correct figures. The populists, of course, have received figures and so have the Republicans, but they are so wide apart that it is hard to depend on their accuracy. In order to ascertain the result it is best to wait till Friday, when the official count will be made and the exact result ascertained. It may be conceded, however, from a boiling down of the figures of both sides that the fusion county ticket is elected by safe majorities with the exception of Stratton for probate judge, and maybe Kies for district clerk, although the latter seems to have the best showing. The official count, however, will be required to determine the chances of Stratton and Natzger for probate judge. There is no question about the election of O'Brien, Boone, Colville, these gentlemen are undoubtedly elected by safe majorities. O'Brien's vote will probably exceed 500 majority and as there are a number of bets on that figure the result will be watched with some interest.

Hon. George L. Douglass (Republican) is elected representative while Rubie and Rawson (fusionists) are also elected without a doubt. Mathias Bush (fusionist) is elected commissioner by a safe majority. Simpson will beat Long in the county by a majority of about 200 or 300.

The following is a statement of the returns from the city precincts as given out by the police commissioners who received them sent officially. They are supposed to be absolutely correct.

THE EFFECT OF THE NEWS.
It is not safe for a man to burrah for anybody for about two days after the election. The best way is to saw wood and wait to hear from the "rural districts."

At an early hour before dawn yesterday morning everything was sunshine in the Republican headquarters, while gloom was so dense at Alliance headquarters that one could almost cut it with a knife into good chunks. John Hume's face was wreathed in smiles while Rufe Cone's face was as long as a yard stick. At the Democrat headquarters the feeling ran to hand and foot, the national result for certain they received as much good news for one day as any people, even Democrats, could wish for. Of course they felt a little sore over what appeared to be a defeat for fusion in the state, but they philosophically concluded that they had glory enough for one day and didn't let their apparent defeat in the state bother them very much. Before noon things began to change as it does in all such cases and the feelings of both sides was exactly reversed. John Hume's face became longer and longer as the sun ascended the heavens while Rufe Cone's face became shorter and shorter and brighter. Fred Bailey, the Populist congressional chairman was sick at heart early in the morning but about noon he skipped around as light as a peacock and said to his friends "I told you so" with an air that would lead no one to believe how badly he felt in the morning. Frank Goetz, the Republican congressional committee chairman, manifested the coolest of all. Grant all the way through. Good news had no more effect on his head than bad news, and when everybody else was excited and enthusiastic over what they believed to be Simpson's defeat, he coolly went on figuring as if it was a matter of course. The fact of the matter was that Mr. Goetz had a system of mathematical combinations which he kept calculating right along, marking debts here and credits there, as losses and gains were shown. He said to his credit that there probably was no man in the district that had made more accurate calculations than he did, and the variations between the returns and his figures were so slight all the way through as not to be noticeable to anybody but a man who has special talents as a politician.

When it became apparent that the state was leaning toward the Populist side, that Jerry Simpson's scalp was saved, and that Cleveland had carried everything doubtful and was battling at the towering walls of Republican strongholds with damaging effect, the fusionists became very enthusiastic and could hardly contain themselves. They yelled and hurraed and cut a thousand and other kinds of capers to express their enthusiasm. Many of them had quite a good deal of celebrating the event, but they probably were celebrating the victory of the constitutional convention and the probability of re submission. Well, they really felt good and considered themselves as having a perfect right to step over the chalk line a little. The police force acted very liberal with them and they had the freedom of the city so to speak. The Republicans had nothing to console themselves with, not even the probability of winning any bets. They felt exactly like the Democrats say they felt four years ago, and perhaps they did. Of course it is natural for a drowning man to cling to a straw and this characteristic was very noticeable on Republican last night. At least 500 of them telephoned to the EAGLE office during the night and feelingly inquired for the condition of Vermont and Pennsylvania and upon being told they were safely Republican they piously thanked the Lord and rang off.

A SUCCESSFUL OPENING.

The Seventh district convention of the Churches of Christ opened its sessions at 2 p. m. at the Central Church of Christ.

A goodly number of delegates were present and after opening exercises and an address of welcome by Mrs. Rev. Sims, a very interesting and enthusiastic devotional service was led by Mrs. Rev. Monroe. Reports of district auxiliaries were then made and proved very encouraging. The question box was also an interesting feature, clearing up many disputed points. A brief business session closed the afternoon session.

Evening session opened with the singing of "To the Work," after which an inspiring devotional service was conducted by sister Lovett of Wellington.

At the close of the devotional exercises H. W. Everest, who needs no introduction to the people of Wichita, delivered a thoughtful and very helpful address on "The Pastor's Duty Toward the Auxiliary," taking for a foundation the words of Paul, "Help those women," giving some reasons why this help should be rendered.

The women have taken an interest with the Y. P. S. E. that each in his own sphere as a follower of Christ should preach. Again the C. W. B. M. has taught us the power of regular, systematic giving of small sums.

Unostentatious giving has also been given a prominence by the C. W. B. M., like the widow's mite, set given in Christ's spirit, and in the aggregate of great value.

Prayerful giving sanctified by prayer and sealed often by tears, was also credited to the C. W. B. M.

Training each other in praying and literary work was also deemed a work of importance accomplished by the ladies.

Then the reaction of this work on the family and home church was discussed, help them by commending their work, by occasional sermons. By commendation aid them to gain membership for the C. W. B. M.

Help them to run themselves, not try to run it all themselves, but rather by letting them alone except in paying.

We can give no full report of this address, but it was full of good things and closed with tender allusions to his companion, lately deceased.

A well rendered solo was then given by Mrs. Walden, which well received.

Mrs. Moore of the state, the state organizer of the C. W. B. M., then delivered a feeling and well thought address the force of which words cannot well portray. Suffice it to say that all who failed to hear it missed a treat.

ARE IN EARNEST.
Now that the interest incident to the great election is over other topics are again taken up. The light infantry boys will now make a strenuous effort to reorganize and recruit their company. The best young men in the city are taking a lively interest. The social season is now on and what delightful affairs were those given by the Wichita light infantry the past two winters. A meeting, an announcement of which will appear in the EAGLE, will be held shortly when the work will be begun. The young men propose to maintain the good name the Wichita company has made.

The literary societies of Garfield university are talking of consolidating.

SCOTTISH RITE.

The semi-annual meeting of the Scottish Rite Masons of our city convenes, for work from the Fourth to the Thirty-second degree, on Tuesday, Nov. 13, at 10 o'clock a. m., and closes on Thursday evening, the 17th.

This will be the largest assemblage of Masons ever convened in this city, as brethren and dignitaries of the Rite from other parts of Kansas and adjoining states have signified their intention to be present and participate in the ceremonies. The brethren of the Wichita bodies are making extensive preparations for the reception of the large class of candidates, and for the accommodation of visitors from abroad. The beautiful ritual of the degrees will be rendered in full costume and will surpass in grandeur and excellence all former efforts, as those who have the matter in charge are proficient in every part of the elaborate work. This branch of Masonry embraces a wide scope of historical events and philosophical truths that were not understood by the ancients, and which in this enlightened age of a higher civilization are fully interpreted and applied to the intelligence and light of the present era of educated minds.

The great truths and perfect code of morality that are taught and inculcated in the ritual commend themselves to persons of enlightened reason. Bigotry, ignorance and superstition have no resting place with those who embrace the true philosophy of the ritual. Life is but a short summer day, and it is incumbent upon all to gather the gems and treasures of right thought and principles as we pass through the corridors of time, and cherish them in forming influences for good; for our thoughts, actions and influences are immortal. Ancient Craft Masonry is a source of symbolism. Scottish Rite Freemasonry is the fruit-bearing branches of the ancient tree that has been the target of persecution during the past ages, but its principles being gathered from the Great Light of Masonry, it has passed through the ordeal, and is today the true exponent and tolerant friend of our political and religious liberty.

THANKSGIVING.
Thanksgiving day will be observed in this city in an appropriate manner. The Thanksgiving concert on the 24th of the month. All business houses and the stock yards will be closed that day. The meetings will be held every night in the week, except Saturday. You are invited to them.

IL TROVATORE.
There will be a full grand chorus and principle rehearsal this evening at Shaw's music store. Every individual taking part in the opera must be at this rehearsal. AMERICAN REPUBLICS.
Amazing Popular Ignorance in This Country About the South Americans.

It is amazing how little we as a people know of the history and of the affairs of our nearest neighbors, says the New England Magazine. With the events of the old world we are tolerably familiar from the time the serpent entered Eden to the latest eviction of an Irish tenant or the latest scandal on the Riviera, but a cloud of ignorance has hung over the southern half of this hemisphere, and until recently we have known but little of the progress or condition of fifty million of people, whose aspirations have been similar to our own, and whose advancement in civilization and commercial prosperity has been their pride and their glory. A justice of the supreme court once asked me what language was spoken in Chili, and a United States senator in a public address alluded to Guatemala as a country of South America. Until recently the books used in our schools had not been corrected for more than a quarter of a century. The same wild horses that roamed with flowing manes and flaming nostrils, even the pampas of the Argentine Republic, when our fathers studied geography still embellished the text-books, notwithstanding the fact that they disappeared long before the buffalo of Kansas, and the familiar pictures of "The Belles of Lima" that ornamented the picture books of the last generation still remained to misrepresent a people that received their fashions from Paris quite as soon and quite as anxiously as the women of Boston or New York. The citizens of Central and South America have been positively sensitive to our ignorance and indifference, but they have treated us with a toleration and forbearance that ought to make us ashamed, and now that our attention has been directed in their direction by self-interest they receive us with a cordiality and hospitality that demands a grateful acknowledgment.

EMINENT DANCERS.
Great Men Who Have Excelled in the Graceful Art.

Here is the proper place to observe that dancing has a bearing on the development of the social order. The medicine men, says the Popular Science Monthly, or priests gain and retain political and social powers through their skill in leading the dance. According to Mr. Beckwith, "the high priest in the religious ceremonies of the Dakotas is invariably a chief, who, through these dances, retains his influence in the tribe." Thus, dancing gives sanction to the powers of the chief, and is one of the necessary qualifications for the office. It is thus associated with position and rank. In the Vedio age (2,000 B. C.), before the rigid division of the castes, the priest was a leader of the dance of the festivals. Later on they became all-powerful Brahmins. The Homeric chiefs were distinguished dancers. Lucian says that Troy was taken, Zeus was saved, and Aradne ruined by a dance. And David led the dance before the ark. The ancients regarded dancing as a necessary accomplishment. Socrates learned the art in his old age, while Plato, in his Commonwealth, advocated the establishment of dancing schools. The Romans celebrated their victories and pastoral festivals by elaborate dances. They excelled in pantomime dances, from which the ballet was evolved. Emperor Domitian forbade the senators to dance, and for so doing removed several members of the senate. Grave statesmen and politicians of high degree have excelled in the eldest of the arts. Both Sully and Cardinal Richelieu were expert dancers. Think of the august cardinal paying a court to Anne of Austria by performing a saraband before her in jester's dress of green velvet, with bells on his feet and castanets in his hands!

JUMBO'S SUCCESSOR.
Jung Pasha, a Young Elephant, Lived Now in Regent Park Gardens.

Poor Jumbo, whose departure from the Zoological Gardens for America, where he met so untimely a death and was at one time a question of absorbing interest, has a worthy successor, says the London Daily News. Jung Pasha, the elephant brought over by the prince of Wales, was at one time quite a dwarf compared with the departed favorite. He has grown and grown, however, until at the present moment he measures only three inches in height less than Jumbo, an inappreciable difference.

Every day the majestic beast may be seen in the Regent park gardens, walking with stately tread round the grounds, carrying a full complement on his back of little boys and girls and grown-up people. Alice, Jumbo's partner in captivity, died about five years ago. In the same house where Jung Pasha has his habitation is the favorite rhinoceros, who has been for twenty-eight years at the Zoo. This is the longest time an animal of this kind has ever lived in captivity, at all events in London. There was one formerly in Regent park for twenty-three years.

A Storm of Ashes.
The captain of the steamer St. Paul tells of a remarkable storm of volcanic ashes through which his ship passed on her last trip from San Francisco to Alaska. He says that at ten o'clock in the morning the vessel was hit into a dense black cloud from which it did not emerge until two in the afternoon. From the
